DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 02/23/09 has been entered.

Title

2. The following title is suggested: "Low-profile motor", to clarify the claimed invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Helmut et al (JP 2000-350404).

Regarding claim 1, Helmut et al teach a spindle motor, comprising

- a motor base (Fig. 3, 21) comprising a steel plate or stator element (Fig. 3, items 31, 32 or 4; Paragraph 11) having a cylindrical motor mounting part (39) and a stator core (12), such that the motor base, the cylindrical motor mounting part, and the stator core are integrally part of said steel plate;

Art Unit: 3729

- a bearing (8) located within said cylindrical motor mounting part;
- a rotator unit (34), comprising a rotor yoke (2 & 36) attached to a shaft (35), said shaft rotationally supported by said bearing; and
- at least one rotor magnet (3) attached to said rotor yoke; and
- wherein the stator core comprises a plurality of winding parts (9) that are integral with said motor base,
- the plurality of winding parts comprise tongues (13) extending in a radial direction towards or away from said cylindrical motor mounting part, and
- the plurality of winding parts (9) having radially extending ends not connected to said motor base, and opposite the rotor magnets.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Helmut et al.

Helmut et al teach a spindle motor, which reads on applicant's claimed invention; except for disclosing the motor base as a single silicon steel plate.

Art Unit: 3729

It would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have the motor base as a single silicon steel plate, since it is known in the art that the stator element contains plastic and ferromagnetics or steel (Fig. 3, items 31, 32 or 4; Paragraph 11) and a motor base of similar materials or the like facilitate the bonding between the motor base and the stator core element.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments (filed on 2/23/09) with respect to claims 1 and 2 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection, especially with the amended claims for new scope of claimed invention.

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
